

Recent releases

During the first seven months of 2025, we saluted iconic Canadian rockers, Indigenous leaders, Canada's 18th Prime Minister, and a Black woman who dared to resist enslavement in the early 1700s. We also released the latest issues in our annual flower, Community Foundation and Eid series, along with a stamp that shines a light on the dark periods of internment in Canada, as well as stamps that celebrate places of Pride. This catalogue brings these and other issues together in one convenient place for you to browse, order and add them to your collection.

Each stamp and collectible is shown in full colour, along with its production number, denomination, size, print quantity and processing details – factors many collectors consider when adding to their collections.

Whether you're a longtime collector or just getting started, follow us on social media for the latest in stamp news and releases from Canada Post. We also encourage you to join our mailing list by visiting our online store or any post office.

Happy collecting!
